

Nick DeNardo is a Consultant with Kirkpatrick Partners.

Nick along with Don, Jim, and Wendy Kirkpatrick is dedicated to guiding organizations to effectiveness through business partnership. Kirkpatrick Partners apply and evolve the Kirkpatrick Four Levels™ and Business Partnership model through seminars, consulting, impact studies, and writings.

Nick came to Kirkpatrick Partners from Edward Jones where he formed a new department, Strategic Learning Services, responsible for making the already outstanding training of the firm even better. Major responsibilities included a key role in the firm's learning governance, driving key learning strategies, and managing the learning technology environment.

Prior to joining Edward Jones, Nick held positions at Tokyo Electron America, Intel Corporation, and served eight years in the US Navy. He has 15 years of experience in various training positions. He has served on the board of the Technician Performance Improvement Council and consulted with academic institutions.

Nick has been a speaker at the ASTD TechKnowledge conference and virtual conference. He has spoken at a variety of other training events. Nick is a contributor to Training on Trial.

Nick has a Master of Business Administration from the University of Texas at Dallas and a Bachelor of Science in Nuclear Engineering Technology from Thomas Edison State College.

For more about Nick, visit kirkpatrickpartners.com.