

JT Easley, Biography

JT Easley currently flies as a captain for a major airline. He started his flying career in 1984 in the US Coast Guard. He has worked in the Training and Safety departments for the last 12 years.

As a Line Check Airman and then a Lead Line Check Airman, JT has been responsible for observing and evaluating flight crews and other Line Check Airmen in their operational duties. He developed and delivered numerous presentations on flight safety, instructional techniques, and evaluation skills to his fellow Line Check Airmen.

JT wrote the Operating Experience Guide used by Line Check Airmen and new pilots to structure initial line training and prepare the students for their checkride. He also wrote a monthly newsletter discussing equipment and procedures to supplement formal training.