

Laura Sharon

Laura Sharon is the President of Imperative Dimensions, Inc., a company that partners with organizations and individuals to improve performance.

Laura is a seasoned performance improvement consultant and professional coach with more than 25 years of professional experience. She has an extensive background and expertise in the areas of front-end performance analysis and assessment, leadership development, organizational change, business process improvement, interpersonal communications, and training design and delivery.

Laura has led a variety of organizational development projects for county, state and federal government, as well as private sector and non-profit organization clients. She also has expertise in the area of program research and evaluation, executive meeting design and facilitation, chronic disease prevention and health promotion, and human behavior change.

Kirkpatrick
Partners

The Standard for Leveraging and Validating Talent Investments™